Presents Keynote Speaker: Bill Alexson, President SportsPower International

Bill will share his journey from his dream of playing in the NBA to his professional Basketball career in Europe and as a NBA Chaplain and mentor.

Bill Alexson has gotten to know many players, coaches, and others connected with the NBA during his 22 year service as the Boston Celtics Team Chaplain. He was instrumental in setting up the chaplain program in the NBA to inspire and answer the deep needs that these players experience. He now takes these players around the world bringing a message of hope to millions of people.

Bill Alexson had his sights on an NBA career but instead God's path has led him to serve as founder and president of SportsPower International. Alexson played basketball through high school and college and played professionally for two years in Greece before injuring his ankle. "I knew then I was not good enough for the NBA, and I thought I was at my end, until I turned to the Lord," he said.

Bill takes NBA players across the globe playing against local and National teams. Because of the powerful platform of these men, the SportsPower games receive free TV coverage to millions and open invitations to meet personally with international leaders in government and business. The people get to view an exciting game and hear the inspirational stories of the players both current and retired. Basketball gets crowds – especially young people – out as they hear personal testimony from players and Alexson at halftime.

SportsPower is a unique organization that can open up doors that no one else can. Bill, his wife, Valerie, and son, Brandon, live in Baltimore.
